

DOUGLAS A. BONEPARTH, CFP®, MBA

Financial Advisor | President
Bone Fide Wealth, LLC

For more than a decade, Douglas A. Boneparth has helped his clients negotiate sales of businesses; establish legacies for future generations; purchase new homes; pay off debt and achieve financial independence. But while servicing the needs of his diverse book of business, he noticed a gaping hole in the financial services industry: financial planning and advice for Millennials, his peers. So while everyone else was chasing old money to invest, Douglas started finding young people to invest in.

With a passion to improve the financial lives of those around him, Douglas founded Bone Fide Wealth, a firm dedicated to providing both effective and relatable advice to the city's hardest working young professionals. Through his personal experiences with student debt, higher education, career development, professional achievement and entrepreneurship, Douglas shares a perspective that very few financial advisors in the industry can. Douglas then draws upon the real life examples of his firm's clientele, offering financial solutions that are as creative as they are practical.

To financially educate and empower Millennials, Douglas speaks across New York City, including engagements at New York University, Fordham University and The King's College and partners with organizations like Experian, SoFi and CommonBond. He is active in w!se, a New York City non-profit that teaches financial life skills to high school students.

Douglas received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Florida and his Master of Business Administration from the NYU Stern School of Business, with concentrations in finance and management. He enjoys playing tennis and volleyball, keeping his menswear fresh and watching college football with Heather and Hazel, his wife and daughter. Go Gators!
